Pari-mutuel clerk views plight

What does a man do when he is placed in the dilemma to cross or not to cross a picket line? Philip Crumper, member of the Local 280 pari-mutuel union finds himself in this position.

If he does not cross the picket line, should it still be at the Alameda County Fairgrounds when the races are scheduled to open, he faces the possibility of being sued by the California Horse Racing Board. If he crosses the line, he faces the possibility of losing his livelihood.

The Dublin resident has been in the racing picture for 12 years employed as a cashier or controller. He says this year has been one of the toughest in his career. He finds himself constantly being placed in the state of "agitation" not knowing whether or not he will be working the following day.

Crumpler says he is still "sweating out" a decision on whether to report Monday, when the horses are scheduled to run at the Pleasanton track.

No union meeting has been called to give direction to the clerks, he said.

As a member of the rules and regulations committee of his Local 280, Crumpler feels he is well versed with the union movement and sympathizes with the needs of the working class people in this country.

"Pari-mutuel along with other unions are in sympathy with the Alameda County workers," he says, "and feel if the supervisors can give themselves the top of a line increase in pay that they should do the same for the working man. They use the excuse of 'inflationary increase,' yet they don't start at the top when trying to cut back on inflation. This to me," he stated, "is a perfect example as to why unions exist."

He went on to state, "these people have the right to determine pay increases to meet the cost of living, but at the same time, here I sit trying to feed my family, buy gas to get to work, etc., yet I'm caught in the middle of having a job or not having a job without a chance to do anything about it. However, I don't agree with giving inflationary pay raises as we all pay in the long run."

He feels regardless of what type labor dispute, pari-mutuel has been put in the position of being "between the devil and the deep blue sea. Members of our union," he stated, "are more concerned with what the California Horse Racing Board will due to pari-mutuel employes than with those who go on strike."

Crumpler said pari-mutuel clerks have been made "scape goats" in the past, by appearing on the job unaware of picket lines.

"It is unfortunate," he said; "that these people find it necessary to close down a vital institution in order to make the public aware that benefits of the ordinary working man and administration are far from equal. "These problems are created at adminstration level." he said.

It is his feeling "that there has to be some middle control where the administrators and the working people can meet and come to an agreement to end these inconveniences to the public yet be fair to all parties concerned. In the end," he said, "that is what union people want -- equality."

Why doesn't Crumpler just "throw in the towel" and look for another job? "First of all," he says, "I love the work I do. I probably meet more variety of people, the prostitutes, pimps, gamblers, doctors, lawyers, statesmen, etc., than anyone else in their profession.

At the races," he says, "they are all equal, they are nice people who treat all of us very nicely and sympathize with us in regard to the pressure we are under on the job trying to serve everyone equally. Basically," he says, "they are all for the same thing, win — out for a good time and perhaps a chance to a little money."

He also credits his wife's patience, understanding and mediator abilities to his "hanging in there."

Crumpler follows the fair circuit, Vallejo (he sweated that one out too), Pleasanton, Santa Rosa, Stockton, San Mateo then Sacramento. When the fairs are not on, he works Bay Meadows or Golden Gate Fields racing tracks.

Fairground pickets to nix horse racing

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — A union spokeswoman vowed yesterday to keep race track workers from the field Monday, while a superior court judge signed orders to show cause against six pickets accused of violating his temporary restraining order at the Pleasanton fairgrounds.

Meanwhile, yet another superior court judge ordered the union to add $23,000 to a $50,000 performance bond posted two weeks ago to cover "transitional" pay the county wanted deducted from pay checks.

As union leader Shirley Campbell told reporters "We'll definitely be keeping out pari-mutuel clerks and those people (scheduled to run the race meet) Monday," Presiding Superior Court Judge Robert K. Barber took the first step toward possible contempt of court citations against pickets.

Oakland attorney John E. Cantwell, hired privately by the county fair association, successfully petitioned the judge to sign orders directing the six pickets to appear Wednesday and show cause why they should not be held in contempt of court.

Judge Barber already had issued a temporary restraining order requiring pickets to inform the public that the strike is against the county and not the fair, and that non-striking unions may cross their lines.

Campbell, not knowing of yesterday's judicial order, said the signs conform to the judge's original requirements. The only change has been the addition of "only" in signs saying the employes are "On strike only against Alameda County."

Earlier yesterday morning, superior court judge Lyle E. Cook ordered the union to post an additional $23,000 to a $50,000 performance bond filed two weeks ago.

The county had planned on deducting "transitional pay" from the strikers' June 11 pay checks.

The "transitional pay" was granted a year ago when the county switched from a monthly to a bi-weekly pay system. Money was advanced to employes so they would not receive two weeks pay after four weeks work.

The June 11 pay checks covered the last two weeks of May before the strike began.

In that earlier action, the county claimed the money was to be paid back when an employe left county service. Giving strikers their last two weeks pay would have increased the county's liability if the workers did not return to county service.

The judge ordered the county to issue the pay checks, and the union to post the bond.

But the county went back into court yesterday asking for an additional $45,000 since the only money still owed employes is pay for the first two days of June.

The judge granted the order, but limited the bond to $23,000.

Visitors to next week's county fair may breeze past pickets, Campbell said. "We won't keep people from the fair. They won't be harassed in any way at all."

She said there has been no response from county supervisors since a face-to-face meeting last Wednesday "when the ball clearly was in their court."

The board, she said, made a meaningless offer to the union and told them they had to take it.

A Wednesday memo from county administrator Loren Enoch showed "a total lack of understanding" of the strike and the union, she also charged.

Enoch contrasted Alameda County's supervisors with those in San Francisco and their "punitive" action against strikers.

"This is not San Francisco," Campbell said, "and we don't have any big cigars in our unions. Our leaders are county workers ... That's an example of (the county's) total lack of understanding."

County figures showing less than 2,500 workers off their jobs also are wrong, she continued. The three locals of the Service Employes International Union have about 4,000 members of a possible 5,500 eligible county workers.

"About 3,000 people are out now and have been since the strike began," she said, adding "there's been a total change of about 25 people since then."

Mori balks on proposed state budget

Assemblyman Floyd Mori is optimistic that the state budget will be approved today or early next week after the objections which he and other Democrats raised finally are ironed out.

Mori was one of eight Democrats who refused to vote with their party's leadership to approve the budget yesterday.

Four others joined Mori in voting no and three abstained. All Republicans in the Assembly voted against the budget, so all eight Democratic votes are needed for the required two - thirds majority.

Mori raised two objections to the budget vote. He resented being asked to vote on it only one hour after a conference report from a joint Assembly - Senate committee was made available to the whole Assembly membership. Since then, he has had the chance to read the report and found that no great objection to the priorities the conference set.

He was happy to see the report retain three items of interest to his district: an important maintainance position at Cal State Hayward, funding for certain Alameda County Mental Health programs, and a request to the University Board of Regents to report back to the Assembly on their progress in labor relations at Lawrence Livermore Laboratory.

The other stumbling block for Mori has been the Legislature's attitude toward the Rodda Bill on education. It would grant each school district an additional $61 per pupil and he wants to see it passed before he votes for the budget. He also wants a bill passed improving teacher and classified personnel pension funds.

Mori was optimistic that the Assembly will pass both education bills today.

Mori was also pleased that the joint conference retained money funds to promote Asian - American admissions liberalization at the University law school. The university had asked for a reduction in the funds.

Tri-Valley Cab Co. floundering, insurance coverage running out

The Valley may be without taxi service, come next Thursday, unless Tri - Valley Cab Co. can get insurance by then.

The area's only taxi service will lose its regular insurance at midnight, June 30. Pacific Public Carriers Cooperative, Inc., their regular carrier, has been seized by the state Department of arainblscuto for a comparable rate.

According to Dave Rezendes, director of administration for the 18 - months - old taxi service, insurance companies they have contacted wan twice as much money as Tri - Valley has been paying.

One company's bid was $250 a month per car (the company has two Dodges and an Oldsmobile, all two to four years old) — payable two months in advance.

Unlike companies that insure privately owned cars, public transportation carriers don't adjust their rates according to geographical area or safety record.

Tri - Valley has only had one accident, "a fender - bender," according to Rezendes; and the Valley is considered a low - risk area in which to drive. Yet, nobody has offered the small cab company a break.

"Larger companies like Yellow Cab get fleet rates," Rezendes observes.

According to Warren Bell, the cab company's director of operations, the seizure of Pacific Public Carriers Cooperative has also brought to a halt 155 San Francisco taxicabs.

In the Valley, with its scanty public transportation system, hardest hit will probably be the senior citizens, who get federally - subsidized taxi rides for 50 cents a trip.

"They're our biggest customers," Rezendes reports. "They need rides to the doctor, shopping, the drugstore, the hairdresser. Most of them have no other way of getting there."

Tri - Valley Cab Co. is a subsidiary of Security Eye Patrol, but their insurance contracts are separate because of the differences in vehicle use.

The beleagured taxicab company officials are calling other small cab companies in California in an effort to uncover a reasonably - price carrier who will insure them before their deadline.

A shutdown would put nine drivers and seven dispatchers out of work.

"But we hope it won't have to happen," Rezendes said.

"We're going to try to locate another carrier even if it means going out of state."

Sunday noon parade to open fair

Gather an armful of Bicentennial patriotism, cover it in all colors of the rainbow and add a generous portion of music and humor and you've got Sunday's annual Fair-time parade in Pleasanton.

And before you think of this as "just another Fair parade," please be reminded the good times will be rolling again this year— what with madcap Spike Jones, Jr., a true slice of Americana, serving as grand marshal.

The valley will be honoring its storied past via the honorary grand marshals riding in the 12 noon parade. Scheduled to ride in a $200,000 Duesenberg are Alfred Casterson of Pleasanton, May Nissen of Livermore and Elsie Kolb of Dublin.

Organized by the Pleasanton Bicentennial Festival Committee, in league with the Pleasanton Jaycees, Chamber of Commerce, City of Pleasanton, and Alameda County Fair Association, the four-decades old parade has been dutifully formed by Lee Ann McFadden and Nancy D'Arcy. The two have contributed hundreds of hours to checking and double - checking entries, line of march and parade officials.

The parade will form at the Amador Valley High School parking lot and in front of the auditorium (for dignataries in vintage vehicles), starting down Santa Rita toward Main at 12 noon Sunday.

Paraders, most of whom will be vying for a wealth of trophies and cash prizes in 42 divisions, will turn onto Rose Avenue and disband just short of the Fairgrounds.

The parade, as in past years, signals opening of the annual Alameda County Fair, which runs from June 27 to July 11.

Spectators and participants alike are invited to a picnic after the parade at Amador Valley Community Park on Santa Rita Road. Picnic will start at approximately 2 p.m.

At 4 p.m., also at the Amador Community Park, prizes in the 42 competitive sections of the parade will be awarded.

Residents of Pleasanton, as well as the rest of the valley, are asked to avoid Main Street between the hours of 11:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. Sunday— and to use alternate routes to and from shopping areas and residential neighborhoods.

Among the more than 200 entries in the parade Sunday are the following;

Bicentennial Color Guard— Young people from the valley carrying 32 original U.S. flags. The rifle carriers will be Mike D'Arcy and Grady McFaddin with Pete Simms giving commands.

Presidents posters— This group is made up of Pleasanton youngsters holding pictures of all the Presidents of the United States. Coordinated by Bev Hamlin.

Voice of the Valley Top Hatters— Formed in 1972 to promote for the VOV Radio Club, Inc. A charitable non-profit organization for community service. They are also the communications experts for all of the areas parades.

Progress in Travel— Gilroy Bonanza Days Float and one of the largest in the state.

Betsy Ross and George Washington— Portrayed by Donna and Leonard Savino of Pleasanton.

Harvest Park School Crusader Band.

U.S. Coast Guard Band.

International Drum Corps from Pebble Beach.

200 years of progress— Spreckels VFW Post 6849 represents 1776 with a 13-star flag and liberty bell, 1876 steam engine, 1976 flying saucer and 50-star flag.

Colmo del Rodeo Parade— From Salinas, they have won numerous first-place awards in San Francisco, San Carlos and Palo Alto.

Square Circle Club— The square dancing club representing the Pleasanton area.

Also, the Electric Auto Association, Bicentennial Float, Livermore Rodeo Association float, Bicentennial dixieland band, mounted riders section including dozens of valley horsemen and women and other champion riders from throughout the state.

Motorcyclist sues city on injuries

Alameda County Bureau

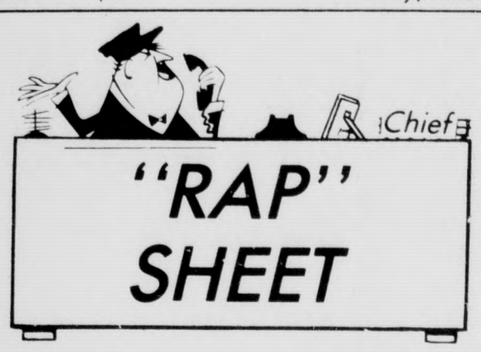
OAKLAND — Both Pleasanton and the county have been sued over a 1975 accident on Foothill Road in which a motorcycle driver was thrown from his bike after spilling into a four-inch hole.

Attorney Charles McCrory, who represented former city councilman George Spiliotopoulos in a reckless driving charge last year, filed papers for William Kwaiser after both the city and the county rejected his $50,000 claims.

The suit says Kwaiser hit a six - foot long, four - foot wide and four - inch deep hole on Foothill Road last Sept. 9 that flipped his bike and sent him crashing to the ground.

According to the suit, "the injuries will result in permanent disability."

Both the city and the county left the road in a "dangerous condition," the suit says, and are responsible for the accident.



Man goes amuck, vandalizes four homes

PLEASANTON — A 22-year-old Pleasanton man, apparently under the influence of drugs, allegedly went beserk and wreaked damage to four homes before being subdued by police.

According to reports, Alfred Christian Shark of Comanche Way was "screaming and yelling" near homes on Washoe Way about 3 p.m. Tuesday. He allegedly broke windows and damaged doors, trees and lamps in the vicinity as about 20 residents attempted to calm him.

Police arrived and said the man assumed a karate position when approached. As officer Craig Veteran distracted Shark from the front, officer Joe Rose grabbed the suspect and wrestled him to the ground, where both men placed handcuffs on him.

The suspect sustained a cut on his wrist and was taken to Valley Memorial Hospital for treatment. On the way, the suspect allegedly told police he was under the influence of wine and a "crystal" marijuana cigarette, on which horse tranquilizer in powder form is sprinkled.

Since Shark is a member of the Air Force, military police were advised of the situation. The suspect was later transferred to Oak Knoll Hospital for further observation.

Car taken from service station — key supplied

LIVERMORE — A car left at a service station for repairs after the station closed was stolen a short time later, possibly by a man who saw the car's owner drop the key inside the station.

John Whitten of Norfolk Road told police that he stopped at the Standard Station on Portola Avenue Sunday about 9 p.m. and left the car there for repairs. He slid the car key under a bay service door, which had a two-inch gap at the bottom, police said. As Whitten left the station, he noticed a juvenile in the station's phone booth watching him, police reported.

When Whitten returned for his car the next day, station attendents expressed bewilderment since they knew nothing of the car's whereabouts. Whitten called police and reported the vehicle stolen.

The car was recovered Monday about 4:30 p.m. at Pine and L streets, less a tape deck and ignition key. Police have no suspects in the case.

Black Avenue home burglarized, guns, jewelry taken

PLEASANTON — Burglars forced open a rear door to Richard Armond Shotwell's Black Avenue home Wednesday and stole $950 in guns and jewelry, police reported yesterday.

Shotwell told police the burglary had to have occurred between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. Wednesday, the times he left the house and when he returned and noticed the theft.

Missing items include three shotguns, a 12-gauge Browning, 12-gauge J.C. Higgins model, and 20-gauge Western Field brand, a .308 Winchester rifle with Weaver scope, and a Bulova wristwatch inscribed with the Shotwell name.

Police have no clues in the theft.

Building fee bite not so bad—Musso

Second in a series

Contrary to developers' claims that the rise in city fees for building have been astronomical, Livermore city building officials think they have been necessary and relatively a small part of the meteoric rise in housing prices.

"When homes were selling for $13,900 in Livermore in 1962, the fees were $1,800. Now the cost of housing has tripled, to $35,000 or $38,000, but fees have maybe doubled in that time to around $4,000," said Planning Director George Musso.

The fees are for offsite improvements — the city's sewage system, park dedication, and other things which go into building a community, said Musso.

Development today in suburbia needs to pay these fees because in effect entire new towns are being created in old ones like Livermore and Pleasanton. It isn't like the old days when five new houses a year were built and hooked up to an adequate sewer plant.

Now Pleasanton has to replace its old sewer plant and Livermore is about 40,000 gallons per day short of its maximum capacity. The sewer connection fees rose to pay for building new sewer plants.

But there have been other areas where the city has helped tack some costs on the high prices of new homes, said Musso. In the old days, it might take a month for the planning commission and city council to approve a subdivision plan. Now the same "well-done" plan will take six months before it clears city approval.

The delay will mean added costs to the developer as he pays about 1 per cent per month on the money he borrowed for the project.

Another new cost has been the Environmental Impact Reports required by the state. They not only slow down the plan approval process, they also can cost anywhere from $2,000 to $10,000, said Musso.

Business appeals ice house denial

PLEASANTON — Lorin Medeiros will appeal the planning commission's rejection of his wood shingled, mansard - roofed ice machine.

Some 287 customers at his Pleasanton Liquors signed a petition in a week asking the commission to allow it in the parking lot next to the store.

But the commissioners decided unanimously that Main Street is no place for an ice house, no matter how spiffy it looks.

The staff had recommended approval of Medeiros' request for the machine, feeling it is a proper use in conjunction with a liquor store.

But the commission felt that the ice house would encourage the proliferation of other ice machines and similar small ancillary structures along Main Street. Commissioners also were leery about youths who hang out in the parking lot and felt it might not be a good location for customers who would use the machine.

Two of the commissioners on the design review board, Bill Jamiseson and Bob Butler, thought that the design was fine, but they voted against the use when it came time for the full commission to vote on the item.

Commissioner Walt Wood, the third member of the design review board, voted against it both times. Wood thought the shingled walls and mandsard roof clashed with the liquor store's Montery style roof and the building's overall design.

Medeiros told The Times there is "a big need in the communinty for ice. People are always coming into my store for ice." He said the demand is so great, he can't handle it all from his store.

Medeiros acknowledged that youths hang out in his parking lot as they do at other open space spots on Main Street. But he quoted Police Lieutenant David Freeman to the effect that the ice house itself would bring up no criminal problems.

Commenting on a recent arrest for assault in the lot, Medeiros said that it was "a long shot. It could have happened anywhere. I can't even remember an assault in the last two years." He added that he made one citizen's arrest on a youth who was drunk in the lot. The youth allegedly was drunk and supposedly had pushed Medeiros, so he responded with the arrest to get him out of the lot.

Fire hazard alert called

The Valley's firefighters observed a "red flag alert" yesterday, Sunol Regional Wilderness was closed and visitors to Del Valle Regional Park were not permitted to smoke or build fires.

The cause was not only intense heat, but humidity as low as 14 per cent, plus a light breeze that served to further dry out the grass and brush. In deciding whether or not to close a park, rangers measure the amount of moisture in the air, wind speed, heat and amount of moisture contained in the brush. When they see a critical fire hazard developing, they ask visitors to leave.

Normally, Sunol is closed two to five times a season. This year, the park has already been closed three days and today is expected to be the fourth.

The latest information on local regional park closings may be obtained from Sunol at 862-2244 or Del Valle at 443-4110.

Firefighters were advised to stay in their air-conditioned headquarters, avoid outdoor drills, take salt tablets and rest up for emergencies during Wednesday and Thursday's "red alerts."

Livermore battalion chief Steve Dick says firemen can become exhausted after fighting a fire for about three minutes in intense heat. Luckily, there have not been many fires thanks to a good weed abatement program and drought - stunted grasses which do not provide much fuel.

Yesterday's highs were 99 in Sunol, 102 in Livermore. The weather is expected to cool off slightly today.

County OK nears on record budget

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — County tax payers were given a short reprieve from the property tax bite yesterday when the board of supervisors failed to approve a record $409 million budget.

The delay is only temporary, however, and yet another product of the 24-day-old county employes' strike.

If passed in its present form next week — and it is expected to be approved — the tax rate will rise by a nickle to $3.15 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The originally proposed $407 million budget could have been financed with the current $3.10 rate and a 12 per cent increase in property values, county administrator Loren Enoch told the board last month.

But in its present form, county spending will require both the higher rate and the increase in property tax assessment.

A homeowner whose castle was claimed by the county to be worth $40,000 in full cash value last year would have claimed the $1,750 homeowner's exemption and paid $296.45 in county taxes on his or her $9,563 assessed valuation.

The assessed valuation is one-quarter of the full cash value.

But under the 1976-77 budget, the $40,000 home leaps to $44,800 in full cash value and $10,762 in assessed valuation.

Computed with the suggested $3.15 tax rate the homeowner pays $339 for a 14 per cent increase.

But the proposed $3.15 tax rate is not set in concrete.

Supervisors will set the rate officially in September after the county has accounted for its 1975-76 spending.

Any increase in revenue — money saved from the current strike, for example, or a cut back in capital projects funding — could keep the rate below the $3.15 projected.

The bridge section meets monthly and welcomes new members who may contact Mrs. Reid at 828-4234 for more information. The Children's Emergency Council, which offers assistance to local families in time of crisis, is now collecting donations of toys and canned goods for its large-scale Christmas basket project. Radio club

The regular meeting of the Livermore Amateur Radio Club slated June 26 has been cancelled. A swim and barbecue party is planned for later in the summer.

The Ham Radio Report this week in an "extra" edition contained good news for radio amateurs. Effective July 23 the Technician Class Licensees will have full novice privileges — on CW (Morse code on continuous wave), on 80, 40, 15 and 10 meters.

Novices receive two benefits under the rule change. Power limits for novices have been raised to 250 watts, and a novice who has failed to upgrade during his two-year license term will be permitted to continue as a novice by taking another novice examination. That means that the requirement for a one-year delay before applying for another novice license has been dropped.

The new 250-watt power limit actually applies to novice frequencies. Any station operating in the novice sub-bands will be limited to that wattage regardless of the class of license held.

Sheriff Houchins seeks back pay

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — County sheriff Thomas Houchins claimed in court this week that the county has him in "an abominable Catch-22."

Attorneys for the sheriff have filed suit to recover 20 days of vacation unused by the sheriff in 1974 while he was undersheriff.

According to lawyer Ralph Yanello, the county's Catch-22, an expression borrowed from the book and movie of the same name that depicts a "damned if you do, damned if you don't" predicament, goes something like this:

Although an elected official, Houchins is still "in the employ" of the county. As such, he cannot be paid for the missed vacation until he leaves county service.

But when he leaves county service, he will do so as an "elected official" not entitled to vacation pay.

"The county can't have it both ways," Yanello says.

Houchins skipped his four - week 1974 vacation to run for county sheriff. He won the election and assumed duties Jan. 1, 1975.

Yanello says the sheriff has asked for the money, but county counsel produced their "Catch-22" rule in January of the following year.

At stake is about $2,400, one month's undersheriff's pay in 1974.

The case will be heard next month.

Army builds 102-foot study tower

PLEASANTON — The Army and a Texas research company will spend 18 months studying Pleasanton's treated sewer effluent.

The company and the Army secured the city council's permission Monday night to build a 102 foot tower — the equivalent of an eight story building — in conjunction with the study.

The study will deal with the health effects of treated effluent irrigating the cow pasture near the Sunol Boulevard Sewage Truatment Plant.

The tower will be removed in 18 months when the study is completed. It is described as a meteorological tower and equipment in it will take readings of meteorological occurrances in the immediate vicinity.

Free boat inspection from Pleasanton flotilla

Scarcely a street in the Valley is without at least one boat parked in somebody's driveway or backyard.

It's boating season again, and all the marine types are heading for the Delta, the Bay or some other spot where they can spend weekends splashing through the foam.

But not all boats are safe, warns Arnold Eaton, safety inspection officer for Pleasanton Flotilla No. 96 of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary.

Unlike automobiles, boats don't have to go through much of an inspection process unless stopped by the Coast Guard. So, the horn can wear out, the motor may be defective and dangerous, a light may be burned out or some other essential mechanism may not be working — putting the unwary boater and his family in danger on the briny deep.

Eaton is in charge of a free inspection this Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., at the Alpha Beta Shopping Center on Hopyard Road at Valley, Pleasanton. Boats that pass will receive a bright sticker attesting to their safety.

Not only will the badge look respectable on the front windshield — it will also warn off Coast Guard inspectors who are looking for somebody to fine for safety violations.

The local flotilla, three years old, has members from Livermore, Pleasanton, San Ramon and Dublin as well as more remote towns such as Antioch. All volunteers, flotilla members have taken a 14 - week boating safety course. The only other requirement for membership is a love of boating.

The Pleasanton boat inspection kicks off National Safe Boating Week, Juny 4 to 10. Further information on the project or on the Pleasanton Flotilla is available from Arnold Eaton, 846 - 6318.

Horse trainers fear money loss

Trainers and owners of horses scheduled to race at the Alameda County Fairgrounds all agree on on subject if the county strike cancels the races.

They'll all lose a lot of money.

Estimates vary as to how much they could lose. Some of the more established trainers admit it would hurt them but that the strike would not run them out of business.

"I still consider myself a small man in this business but I've been around along time so I would pick myself up and go on," said L.N Bunyard, a 28-year old veteran of horse breeding.

Bunyard, who owns 17 head of horses at the fairgrounds, is also an adapt trainer. He is frank in his estimation of the financial loss which could hit him if the strike cancels the races.

"I would say we could probably lose about $200 per day," he stated. "On a 12-day racing schedule that adds up to $2,400."

He has lived in the Pleasanton - Livermore area for much of his adult life and isn't about to throw in the towel if the racing folds.

"I'd think it would hurt some of the younger, less established people," he said.

Virgil McVicker, a trainer for the Evergreen Stables out of Gustine in the Central Valley, also admits horse breeders will be hit with heavy loses should the stike cancel the races.

"It would have costbout $4,000 to store the horses here for the races," he explained. "That's not including about $380 per month for added expanses."

Are there any other problems confronting the trainers and owners outside of finances?

"The longer the horses remain inactive the more stale they become," McVicker answered. "We spend a certain amount of time building the horse horses up for the races and then they lose their competitive edge if they stay inactive."

McVickers also agrees that the small-time or younger horse breeders would be hurt the worst if the races folded.

"The experienced guys may recover but the other ones may have to give up and sell their stock."

Most of the trainers have no idea whether the races will be eventually be held or not. However, one trainer though about it enough to give his opinion on the subject.

"I really can't say for sure whether the races will start Monday or at all," he admitted. "However, I'd say they would probably start on Tuesday."

Dons scuttle Mariners by 2

The Pleasanton Dons knocked off highly-touted Hayward, 36-34, in Allied Brokers Summer League basketabll at Amador Valley High School last night.

The Dons held a 25-13 lead midway through the third period before the Mariners started chipping away. They pulled off nine unanswered points, closing the Dons gap to 25-22 at the quarter's end.

The teams traded baskets in the first two minutes of the final period before Jim Goudreau, Hayward's 6-4 pivotman, took hold of the situation. Goudreau hit on a 15-foot jumper and later on an easy lay-in to put the Mariners up by one point, 29-28.

But Goudreau picked up his fifth personal foul moments later when called for charging on a drive to the hoop.

Hayward could not work the ball inside after Goudreau's exit, and Pleasanton capitalized. Chris DePrater matched a pair of free throws at 2:47 to put the Dons up 32-30.

With two minutes left DePrater hit on an inside lay-in, upping the cushion to 34-30.

Pleasanton maintained its slim lead throughout the final two minutes surviving a frantic last minute rally by the Mariners.

Eddie Valdivia sank two free throws for Hayward with 58 seconds left, making it 36-34. After a myriad of time outs by both teams, the Mariners won a jump ball with 37 seconds left and had a chance to tie.

They worked the clock down to 15 seconds, but Tony Dorado missed a 10-foot jumper and Chris Kearns grabbed the rebound for the Dons.

Hayward still had one last shot when Pleasanton forward Kearns missed his one-on-one free throw. The Mariners ran the ball down court and missed a hurried jump shot from 20 feet out as the buzzer sounded.

Dublin, meanwhile, won its game with Pleasant Hill by forfeit while Danville suffered a 42-31 defeat at the hands of Walnut Creek. John Deigan's hot outside shooting did the Wolves in the final quarter.

Valley soccer teams face top competition

There will action galore for valley soccer fans this weekend. Three local teams are involved in matches with teams from other areas and the from other areas and the respect of local soccer is on the line.

At 6:30 p.m. today the District 3 under-16 All-Stars will face a Dallas All-Star squad at Aquatic Park in Pleasantoc.

Tomorrow the District 3 team will face a California Youth Soccer Association team in a round-robin tournament at Aquatic Park. Match time is noon.

Other action sees the Ballistic under-12 squad take on San Francisco champion Holy Cross at 10:30 Saturday at Aquatic Park. The Ballistic squad plays Lafayette Sunday.

Los Diablos's under-21 team takes on San Jose Sunday in a round - robin contest in Spartan Stadium in the South Bay city.

Los Diablos defeated Burligame 7-1 in last weekend's opening round contest. Other teams in the tournament are San Francisco and Menlo Park.

Several former East Bay Athletic League stars are on the Los Diablos roster for this tournament.

Dan Payne, a winger from Livermore who played for Chico State, heads the list. Another excellent player is Chabot College star Tim Wade. Wade also prepped at Livermore.

Kevin Burke, Manzar Iqbal, Kevin Teel and Jim Lemmon of Granada High's soccer team are also on the Los Diablos squad.

District 3 under-16 coach Ian Lang admits he does not know much about the Dallas squad.

"They have a great program down there," he said. "But other than that I don't know much about them."

You can bet the Dallas team doesn't know how good they play soccer in this valley, either.

Norcal hosts Treasure swim

SAN FRANCISCO — One would be hard pressed to find a better setting for swimming than an area surrounded by water and that's the prospect for some of Northern California's outstanding age group swimmers this weekend at the Treasure Island Championships Long Course AA Meet below this city's half of the Oakland Bay Bridge.

"We're looking for several super swims," said NorCal Aquatics coach Bill Radley, whose team will host the event. "We may even see a few national records."

Several NorCal swimmers will figure prominently in their own meet.

However, the club's headliner, Dana Davidson, may miss some of the action which gets underway today at 3 p.m. and continues all day Saturday and Sunday due to a death in her family.

Should Davidson compete in the meet, she'll have new worlds to conquer. Dana, who rewrote the record book in the under-10 and 11-12 year old divisions, recently turned 13.

But the age factor should make little difference as she is seeded first in the 100- and 400-meter freestyles.

"She should win going away," Radley said last night. "She's just never had the opportunity to swim against these girls before." Earlier this month, Dana said farewell to the 11-12 division with six Pacific Association records.

Amy Schinnerer in the under-10 division, and 14 - year - olds Pat Price and Jan Davidson are other NorCal performers Radley expects to do well.

A trio of East Bay Athletic Leaaue high school swimmers will also be on hand, swimming for the Pleasant Hill club. There are Katie Fleischer of Amador Valley, Chris Hoenig of Granada and San Ramon sophomore Davitt Cunningham.

Other top entrants will include Mary Beth Linzmeier, a Sequoia 12-year old, Barbara Hosking, a Tamalpais 14 - year - old, Robin Fiene, a Concord 13 - year - old and Pleasant Hill butterfly star Cheryl Smiarowksi.

In the boys 15-18 division Concord's Dan Boatwright and John Riolo lead the field along with Arden Hills Walt Hardin and Palo Alto's Eric Bunje.

Homeless Cubs miss players

Playing baseball without a home field is hard enough but when a coach is missing his starting pitcher for a game the problems really expand.

That's just what confronted Tri-Valley Cubs coach John McCuaig Wednesday night when his starting hurler failed to show up for a practice tilt with the International Forresters Falcons at San Francisco's Funston Field.

That plus the fact only 11 Cubs players suited up for the game made the outcome rather obvious: a 8-3 Falcon victory.

Not that the Cubs didn't try. The local club grabbed a 1-0 lead in the first inning but the I.O.F. bats proved to be too tough for the Cubs.

Tri-Valley is still without a home field field. The teams plays all its games on its rivals' diamonds.

Tomorrow the Cubs hope for better luck when they take on Fresno State's summer team in a doubleheader in the Raisin City.

The first game begins at 5:30 p.m.

Sunday the Cubs return to Northern California Baseball Association play.

Hardware wins slugfest shows balanced attack

Ace Hardware pounded out 21 hits in taking a resounding 19-13 victory over the Lamplighters in Livermore Area Men's Recreation Softball Tuesday.

Animals, people and Santa Rita

When Councilman John Staley questioned "security clearance practices" for those seeking entry to the Alameda County Animal Shelter at Santa Rita, he opened up a Pandora's box of questions into that prison compound's operation. The box should not be closed until the public has some answers.

Councilman Staley, and through him the Livermore city manager's office, challenges the Sheriff's Department policy which requires that a visitor to the Animal Shelter — which is contained within the Santa Rita compound — produce "identification" before admittance is allowed.

Councilman Staley says his own experience was that an official Civil Defense Card ("which would admit me to almost any facility in the Bay Area") was refused by a gate guard who then demanded Staley's driver's license. "He disappeared into his shack with my driver's license, then returned in a few moments to advise me that I was free to enter the compound."

This recalls the experience of another Valley attorney who challenged the Santa Rita guard's right to require a visitor to produce his driver's license "which was then checked by computer to see if any outstanding charges were on record against that individual."

The practice, our attorney friend contended, amounted to "illegal search and seizure." When we printed that story, Sheriff Houchins promptly denied any such practice at the Santa Rita gates, but then adding "if it has been going on, I will see that it doesn't happen again."

What is at stake here is something well beyond the sheriff's lament that idenfication is required "in order to protect the integrity of the jail facility..." What about the integrity of those citizens who seek nothing more than routine entry into an animal shelter?

Then there are all those other county services available to the Valley populace at the Santa Rita compound ... drug detoxification, county warehouses, inoculations and the service for which Santa Rita was originally intended — professional help for alcoholics. In none of these is there, nor should there be, opportunity to check into an individual's "police record."

The mere hint of "security clearance" in order to gain free access to public services is repugnant in this democratic society. Just because the sheriff happens to be today's major tenant of that 900 - acre compound, in no way gives the county police control over all those services, or the single access road that leads to them.

The sheriff should remind his deputies that they are, first and foremost, servants of the people; and most of us aren't really criminals, just taxpayers trying to get along in this dog - goned world.

Initiative action

Prior to that ill - fated "Nuclear Initiative" on the June ballot, this newspaper recited the sad history of such initiative action in recent years ... attempts by the people to draft new legislation or constitutional change that, with rare exception, failed to achieve anything like that original thrust.

A large part of the fault appears to rest with improper or inadequate wording of that initiative, often leading to voter distrust at the polls, or long court tests even should that proposal win voter approval. This in turn suggests that the initiative process is faulted because it does not enjoy the careful screening given those bills put forward by state legislators.

Now we are informed by the California Taxpayers Association that no less than 20 such initiative actions are still on the back burner — still waiting their chance for that one big ballot test. These questions range from a revival of "coastal land control" to a bold attempt at limiting property taxes.

It is not a question of the initiatives being well - intended; it certainly does not suggest that the people should be denied this important funnel to law making. What does become apparent however is that this process is drowning in its own mess And if that situation is allowed to prevail, the people will give up on the initiative process, just as so many have already given up on government by legislative fiat.

Common sense and the democratic system would seem to dictate a better way. There has been talk in Sacramento of blending "the best of both initiative action and legislative review." But some politicians see this as a way of "bottling up those activists in the bureaucratic process," while the die - hard drafters of those initiatives (many of them high - paid pros in their own right) smell opportunity to "bring down the system."

The problem is that this standoff serves only to further frustrate the initiative process, and thereby discourage the peoples' interest in all legislative action. You would think that the activist groups and the "consumer oriented legislators" would see this, and would adjust accordingly. But such logic only applies if those people are more interested in meaningful achievement, than they are in self - serving skirmishes.

Letters to the Times

Both sides

Editor, The Times:

Al Fischer's article dated June 10, 1976 "Resource Teacher Program Fate Unknown" was another biased attempt to put down Murray teachers. At no time has Mr. Fischer interviewed me or the Survey Coordinator concerning Murray teachers feelings about the Resource Program.

I would like to clear up some misleading statements in the article: 1. The district's report is preliminary and doesn't ask if the program is worth keeping. 2. Eight (8) hand-picked parents were surveyed by the district of which at least two and maybe more don't even have children in the Resource Program. 3. Board President Ted Woy is in error in his attempt to discredit the survey because of a minor statistical method he uses. He is attempting to skirt the true issue behind the survey by trying his best to discredit it.

In conclusion, the Rep. Council Survey is an honest attempt by teachers to help the Murray School Board in making a decision about the program. The Rep. Council surveyed the people who know the most about the program — Murray Teachers. An attempt by your paper and School Board Members to discredit it is beyond my comprehension. Please in future articles seek out both sides before writing stories.

A rose

Editor, The Times:

Now that school is closed, I have no other way than writing this letter to thank the Livermore High School graduating class of '76 for the lovely long stem rose they sent out to my crossing along with their very touching note.

I want to take this opportunity to thank all the Livermore High School students for their cooperation and patience while waiting with me at the cross walk, for a break in traffic at this busy intersection.

I can truthfully say that in the five years I have been on East Avenue, I have never had a Livermore High School student create any real problems for me, either crossing or driving.

I have had many adults express dissatisfaction with the high school age drivers but I have found that the teenage drivers have a lot more patience than some adults and I have found them to be extremely courteous in or around my crosswalk.

They seem to sense the fact that our crossing is a busy one with hazardous traffic. Some of the adults that drive by this crossing should take a lesson from these kids and then perhaps the traffic wouldn't be so hazardous in this area.

Human decency?

Editor, The Times:

I am writing to share information with my community regarding the California Greyhound Racing Initiative.

Cruelties described and photographed in dog training sessions would disturb any who feel the human decency mandates a quick merciful death for any animal that must be destroyed. A St. Petersburg Florida Times photo showed a picture of a rabbit, tied by it's hind legs to a mechanical lure, with it's head dangling inches off the ground. The terrorized animals slow, painful death as described, was a travesty on humane consideration. Rabbits are used as a lure to make the dogs to run.

Though a state lottery also invites corruption, revenues are not sustained by exploitation and cruelty to animals. Further information may be obtained from Californians Against Greyhound Racing, P.O. Box 22262, San Francisco, California 94122.

School obedience

Editor, The Times:

Administration's major demands on personnel in the Livermore School District are obedience and meekness.

This attitude, neither healthy nor consistent with American ideals and traditions, fosters a great deal of abuse. An example, is the letter sent by Superintendent Croce to the L.E.A. Representative Council, accusing, scolding, and insulting me, when as president of L.E.A. I informed teachers of their rights, under state educational code, after they received dismissal notices.

Mr. Croce's investigations consist of checking with his administrators. Decisions are based on convenience and benefit to administrators. Asking a panel of district employees to investigate and speak on both sides of a question exposes them to probable harrassment and intimidation.

Anyone who questions administration is subject to harrassment and abuse. I know, from personal experience.

American bandstand

Editor, The Times:

On behalf of the Pleasanton Bicentennial Commission we want to publicly express our gratitude to all who participated in the renovation and completion of the Lion's Club Bicentennial Bandstand in Wayside Park. Formal dedication was held on Flag Day, June 14th.

In November of 1974 the Bicentennial Commission approved a community bandstand as a priority project. Through the efforts of Festival Committee Chairperson, Charlotte Severin, the Bicentennial Community Band was formed under the directorship of Jerry Lapinsky.

Then in cooperation with the Pleasanton Lion's Club the old bandstand at Wayside Park was completely rennovated and enlarged. Lion Tony Maccihano (1976 King of Mardi Gras) was in charge of the project. He obtained substantial contributions from several of his friends.

Naturally our thanks is essential to the Pleasanton Jr. Women who contributed a substantial portion of their '76 Mardi Gras proceeds to the Bicentennial Commission.

The bandstand has truly been a case of many independent individuals contributing their time, talent and money for the benefit of the entire community.

Last but certainly not least we thank the news media for their excellent coverage of this and other Bicentennial activities.

We the Bicentennial Commission look forward to many local musical groups performing on the Lion's Club Bicentennial Bandstand for many years to come.

EARL WATERS

Jerry's win

In his California presidential primary Governor Jerry Brown exuberantly proclaimed his was the greatest win of all times. "Nobody ever did it before," he raved into the TV mike. The kid has a short memory. His old man did it before and better, twice!

Jerry tallied 1,693,038 votes to the 944,655 of his three closest rivals. This does not count the ballots for George Wallace, Henry Jackson, Ellen McCormack, Birch Bahy, Fred Harris and the uncommitted delegation which, when added to the rest, leaves junior with under 500,000 plurality and makes his win something less than 3 to 2.

As a favorite son candidate in 1964, his father, former Governor Pat Brown, defeated Los Angeles mayor Sam Yorty by better than 2 to 1. In so doing he polled more votes that year than his son received this time even though there were fewer registered back then to vote. He did the same thing four years earlier against pension advocate George McLain, fending off his challenge to lead the delegation. While the margins were wide, neither of Brown Senior's wins reached a million vote spread between himself and the losers.

But in 1968 U.S. Senator Eugene McCarthy outran favorite son candidate Attorney General Tom Lynch by nearly a million votes, only to lose to Bobby Kennedy who edged him by 150,000 votes. The total vote cast for McCarthy and Kennedy alone was more than that gathered by Jerry Brown and the entire field of 1976 candidates, even though there has been a growth in eligible voters.

Brown made the mistake of reading into his vote further encouragement for his presidential bid despite the fact that Jimmy Carter was clinching the nomination that same day with his Ohio win. All that was left was the pecking order in which Carter would receive the delegates standing in line to climb on the bandwagon.

Brown will also interpret the California returns as a vote of confidence for him as governor. If he does, he will be making another big mistake. It will ignore the fact that Californians voted nearly 2 to 1 for someone other than Brown. What must be matched against his 1.6 million votes are the more than one miillion Democrats who voted for others, and the two million who supported Reagan or Ford.

In his win over President Ford in California, Ronald Reagan got a bare 1.25 million votes. In the 1966 primary he received nearly 1.5 million. Interestingly, the vote received by San Francisco Mayor George Christopher, who opposed Reagan that year, was almost exactly that received by Ford this time. Reagan went on to defeat Pat Brown by a million votes. That was the same margin of victory Pat had scored over U.S. Senator William Knowland eight years earlier.

If the governor believes he stands high with the California electorate today, he should keep in mind their fickleness. One who has just experienced it is Robert Finch. He received 3.8 million votes in 1966 to win office as Lt. Governor, topping Reagan by more than 100,000. Running for U.S. Senator this year, Finch polled barely half a million ballots.

round the town

COUNTY CORK, IRELAND — We were making our way down what the Irish generously refer to as "the main trunk road along the south coast" when who should appear from around yet another bend in the road but a very rugged looking Irishman, great stick in hand, waving our rented car to a most urgent stop.

"Have y' been seeing any cattle along the road?" he inquired.

We assured him we had not, and prepared to continue on our journey.

"Whar would y' be comin' from ... and whar would y' be goin'?" he demanded, and then, edging his elbow and a hint of that great stick through the open window on the driver's side, he added, "y' be tourists from America, would y'?"

I don't know if it was that black Irish look, or the smell of Irish whiskey on his breath, or just the way he held that stick, but something told this American tourist to get the hell out of there, and fast. I shifted into first gear, rolled up that window and gunned the car forward all in one motion. My black Irish friend was not happy with our sudden departure. We will never know what additional surprises he had in mind for these two Yanks. Frankly, I never want to know.

That was one side of "the lovely Irish countryside" which you don't read about in those Sunday travel sections. But it is there, nonetheless.

Rural Ireland is poor, very poor. Get five minutes out of Cork or 30 miles beyond Dublin and you are in another world. One that perhaps we Americans cannot comprehend, unless you have travelled the backroads of Mississippi or known the poverty of the Appalachia.

The people of rural Ireland look drawn, hungry even. The villages like Kinsale, Clonakilty and Skibbereen are old, they are charming, and some might even say "beautiful in their way." But they are also poor, their shops reflecting little vitality, their streets and walks and building fronts showing years of neglect.

It is in the God-given land and in the faces of those blessed children that rural Ireland blossoms forth. There is beauty in both that must be unmatched anywhere on earth.

It would be easy to spend four days driving through the counties of Cork and Kerry, along the lovely coast and past those inland lakes, and convey nothing but a a great sense of awe at all that beauty. I could write forever about the three Lakes of Killarney. I could — if talented that way — compose a poem on Bantry Bay. Just to remember one afternoon's drive through that countryside is to recapture untold pleasure to the eye and the spirit.

But that is only part of Ireland's story. And it is the part that we Americans too often hear, or read about. It is as though Ireland — North and South — is blessed beyond all need. After all, didn't St. Patrick evict the snakes and all other undesirable elements?

He did not evict the English, and there are those who contend, even in today's Irish press, that therein is the root of their problems ... whether in the Republic which dominates a surprising three - fourths of that isle, or "The Six Counties" which have been waging bloody war for some 200 years in search of God knows what.

(The Englanders we spoke to seem equally anxious to rid themselves of "that bloody island." Apparently this feeling has yet to permeate the highest level of English and Northern Ireland leadership.)

But these things are not supposed to bother the happy American tourist, bent only on sharing the good Irish life. We found it. Even in Kinsale, in an unlikely pub known as "The White House," where we had sandwiches of hot chicken and beef, wrapped in bread that was fresh and crisply crusted, and all washed down with some Irish lager.

We found it too at Bantry House, one of the lesser-known of the British Isles' several thousand "historic old mansions and palaces," but certainly one of the most fascinating.

I will leave it to those of you who may someday travel Trunk Road 65 from Dunmanway to Killarney to discover for yourself the particular charm of Bantry House. It is, in a word, authentic, and that claim alone makes the many art treasures, the fading tapestries and the fading dreams worthy of a few hours' visit. While there is still time.

For time is running out on those old mansions, in Ireland and in Scotland and in England. The owners can no longer afford the servants, or the taxes. The government (particularly in Ireland) seems little interested in helping preserve those ancient dwellings. Even in the interest of tourism.

Oh, there are a few "National Preserves." Like Muckross Abbey, in Killarney. But I do not share the enthusiasm for that place expressed by such as Charles McCabe, who is relating his Irish travels in the San Francisco Chronicle.

The gardens of Muckross are indeed lovely. But the house is neglected, stripped of its treasures by a government that then decided to promote Muckross as a great tourist attraction. It is more a tourist trap. Skip it and save 50 pence. Bantry House, at half that price, is four times the value for those who appreciate vintage Ireland.

You might also skip Cork, a very busy and cluttered industrial city, and the downtown areas of Killarney and Tralee, which are cluttered with tourism.

Stay in the countryside, drive the windy roads, bask in the beauty that seems to go on forever. That is not the complete Ireland, but it is the part that visitors from America, from Sweden and most particularly from Germany come in droves to see. From the evidence of their investment in Ireland's tourist potential, I would have to believe those outsiders know something that the Irish do not.

Lighter Times

Because Pamella Manwiller of Petaluma caught the City of San Francisco with its nautical miles down, some residents within this Valley can still retain their city jobs over there, while keeping their residence over here.

It all sprung from that SF ruling which required city employees to "live within 30 airline miles" of San Francisco. Petaluma, and Pleasanton - San Ramon, would have been just outside that limit. But Mrs. Manwiller challenged the 30 - mile - radius ruling, contending that "airlines use nautical miles, and therefore 30 airline miles acutally comes to 34.5 miles."

San Francisco's legal department agreed. The city's residential radius was extended to 34.5 miles, thereby including Petaluma, and Pleasanton, Sunol, Dublin and San Ramon.

Which means that those SF employees who wish to reside "City Close, Country Quiet" can continue to do so, has always preferred Pleasanton to Pacific Heights. Apart from better neighbors, look what he's saving on property taxes!

For Friday, June 25, 2976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your attention span could leave a little to be desired today. Try not to clutter up the house with half-finished projects.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't get mixed up in anything financial today that you have doubts about. If you have second thoughts, heed them.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you get into a situation today that calls for your personal managerial touch, be very decisive in any moves you make.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Handle any high priority matter promptly. The more you dawdle, the less chance you have of settling it effectively.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) While you'd like to think that wishes make it so today, you know better. If you want something to happen, you must make it happen.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're likely to only partially develop your possibilities today if you let self-doubts creep in. Don't be afraid to err.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't hesitate to state what you have on your mind today. In doing so, say exactly what you mean.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't be pressured into buying something you don't want today. Keep in mind, the money comes out of YOUR pocket.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In situations involving teamwork, don't leave everything up to your partner. The more hands, the lighter the work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You have a tendency today to underestimate the value of your work or skills. Someone who knows their true worth could take advantage.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're an interesting person. Usually, others enjoy what you have to say. That's not an excuse, however, to monopolize every conversation.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll be fortunate today in negotiations with persons with whom you have strong emotional ties. Dealing with strangers may not turn out so well.

ABOUT ROCK MUSIC

"Does Rock Music Provide a Satanic Influence and Pervert Young Minds?" Dan Vigus, an ex-rock group drummer, thinks so.

He will speak on evils and adverse influence of rock music in today's culture at the 7 p.m. service at Parkway Baptist Church, 7485 Village Parkway, Dublin, this Sunday. His talk is spiced with personal experiences and solid Biblical research on the subject.

Other Sunday activities at Parkway include a Bible study class for all age groups beginning at 9:30 a.m., with nursery care for all pre-school children. Regular morning services begin at 11 a.m.

The instructional series "How to understand Your Bible" continues during the Christian Life Training period at 6 p.m.

Each Wednesday at 7:30 p.m., Pastor West conducts a special Bible training and prayer service, while Christian training programs for pre-school through high school age youngsters are being held.

For more information on the many activites at Parkway, call the church office, 828-0359.

TRINITY'S FREE FILM

The Mark IV production of "A Stranger In My Forest," will be screened Sunday, June 27, at 6:45 p.m. at the Trinity Baptist Church, 460 Livermore Ave., Livermore.

The church will be showing a film the last Sunday of each month throughout the summer without charge.

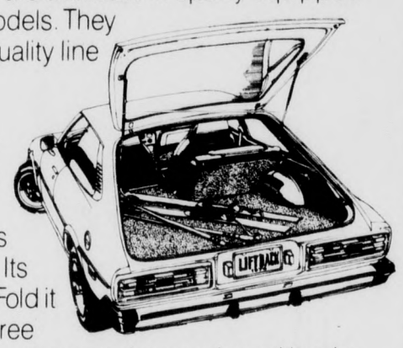
NEW TWO

Introducing two fun Toyotas that are incredibly functional. The new Corolla Liftback and Corolla Sport Coupe. Both have eye-stopping, sporty good looks inside and out. Both are available in sporty-equipped SR-5 and Deluxe models. They round out Toyota's quality line of Corollas.



Functional fun. We designed the Corolla Liftback to be stylishly sporty looking, and yet it's a practical car with two doors plus a wide rear liftback that opens into a spacious cargo area. Its versatility continues with a unique fold down split rear seat. Fold it all the way down and you've made enough room to hold three carts of groceries. Fold half the split rear seat down and you can carry long awkward loads, and there's still a seat left in the back to carry a passenger.

Economical to operate. The new Corolla SR-5 Liftback and Sport Coupe have a standard 5-speed overdrive transmission to give you great gas mileage and performance. 1976 California EPA tests with 5-speed overdrive transmission, 36 MPG highway, 20 city. These EPA results are estimates. The actual mileage you get will vary, depending on your driving habits and your car's condition and equipment. An automatic transmission is available on Deluxe models.

No-cost extras. Toyota has always been known to give you a long list of extras at no extra cost. The two new Corollas are no exceptions. Every Corolla is equipped with standard features like: reclining bucket seats, power assisted front disc brakes, MacPherson strut front suspension, transistorized ignition, styled steel wheels, and power boosted flo-thru ventilation, all included in the list price.

Toyota stands behind Toyota quality. There are nearly 1,000 authorized Toyota dealers across the U.S. comprising a network of service departments staffed with Toyota trained mechanics. Quality. ALAMEDA COUNTY FAIR

Nissen, Kolb and Casterson: Storied links to the early days

Taking the reins in her sturdy young hands, Elsie Kroeger looked quickly over her shoulder to make sure sister Lena was secure beside her before setting off over the narrow dirt road for grammar school a couple miles distant.

Elsie kept tight rein on the horse so the buggy would not falter or tip in the rutted path ahead. Though she had no idea back in those days of 1914 and 1915, she was really helping forge the first east-west link between what is now Oakhill and downtown Pleasanton.

Young Alfred Casterson, some 12 or 13 years earlier, came from a different direction as he rode (via horse and buggy) those four miles from his parents' ranch out beyond what is now Camp Parks to Pleasanton Grammar School.

About the same time as Alfred was completing his schooling at "the school up on the hill," sprightly, young May Nissen was diligently studying her way toward entrance to the big university in the still-country town of Berkeley.

Young May would go on to reap laurels at both Livermore High School (the only high school hereabouts in the early 1900s) and the University of California before setting out on a career of teaching.

So while we salute the Bicentennial, take in Sunday's parade and attend the Fair, perhaps we might all remember that the 200 years of this country are really about people, and places, and their accomplishments.

The story of May Nissen, or the Kolb family or the Castersons is really the story of the valley.

They have seen the valley in pristine state, from a horse and buggy and dirt roads, to present day hatchbacks, convertibles and freeways.

Al Casterson, who graduated from grammar school at the turn of the century, can sit down and reel off the names of his grade school teachers from first through eighth.

And any details he might miss will be filled in by the former Bertha Jessen, his wife of the past 58 years.

The Pleasanton Grammar School faculty of that era was presided over by Principal Weed and included Fanny Hay, a Miss McKenzie, Deidre Hewitt, Lyna Beckwith and Lilly Harris.

Bertha and Alfred met when she was teaching high fourth and low fifth grade at Pleasanton Grammar School. Bertha had come over the hills from Hayward, a lengthy journey in those days of 1914.

Alfred made his feelings known by bringing down a coal oil stove to the Odd Fellows Lodge when Bertha was being initiated into Rebekah's. They were married in 1918.

A member of the Masonic Lodge for 57 years, Alfred is a past master of Alisal Lodge and treasures his 50-year membership pin.

He has been a member of the Presbyterian Church for 72 years and is also associated with Sons in Retirement and the Alameda County Employees Association.

Mrs. Casterson's father came to Hayward in 1864, four years before Alfred's parents arrived in Pleasanton.

The Casterson home was originally located out on Tassajara, beyond Camp Parks. As a young man, he and his older brother worked the ranch.

During his long professional career, Casterson served as a trustee for the old Antone School District from 1919-1932. He was on the high school board from 1943-46 and served as deputy assessor for the Pleasanton area from 1946 to 1959.

Bertha taught in Hayward for two years prior to a 6 1/2-year stint at old Stony Brook School, located between Niles and Sunol.

Later in her career, she agreed to fill in for six weeks in the Murray School District— circa 1940— and wound up staying for six years.

The prevailing attitude in education at that time was to hire single teachers, Mrs. Casterson illustrating this by telling how Tom Nielsen, a Murray trustee at the time, told her, "Now, Bertha, please understand we don't like to hire married teachers."

Elsie and H.W. Kolb live in an old, but tasteful and comfortable ranch-style residence close to Highway 580 and Foothill Road.

Freeways and, with it, all the intrusions of modern day, have literally bulldozed right up to their front gate.

Elsie was born on the Busch Ranch in the Amador Valley.

Their was no "Pleasanton" at that time.

When just six months old, she and her parents moved to the Alviso Adobe. That was shortly after the turn of the century. The great San Francisco earthquake of 1906 caused only a minor crack in the Adobe, which had only four windows.

In 1912, they moved into a home built by C.H. Bruce in an area that is now Oakhill in Pleasanton. The present house where the Kolbs live was built the same year.

Elsie lived in the family home in those long-ago pre-Oakhill tract days until she married in 1920.

She attended grammar school in Pleasanton and took the first two years of high school in the same facility.

"I used to drive the horse and buggy as far as Pleasanton Grammar School and then take a Model-T Ford the rest of the way to Livermore High School," she recalls.

Graduating in 1917, "about the same year the Catholic Church in Livermore burned down" the two remember, she stayed on the ranch to help milk cows, wash the separater and pick grapes.

As they recall their childhood days as well as those after they were married, the names and places stream forth....Neves Pavilion, Lou Crelln, Ruby Hill Vineyards, H.P. Mohr, Charley Graham, Dr. Harold Cope, Robert Livermore, Bertha Moller and the San Antone Valley.

So on Sunday we not only salute the Bicentennial but these three who have seen so much of it right here in "the valley."

— by Al Fischer

FLASH CADILLAC and THE CONTINENTAL KIDS. They'll be in Pleasanton July 2-3 for quartet of shows at Fair.

Flash Cadillac: 'Real hairy party music'

"What we need is a revival of really hairy music, good drinking and party music.

"How long has it been since you've heard any of that real, good time rock and roll, or had a really great evening when you take home souvenirs— like the usher's ear, or put your head through a plate glass window?"

Would you believe those quotes are from the headline act appearing July 2 and 3 at the Alameda County Fairgrounds Amphitheatre?

Well, they are.

Appearing with Flash and the Kids will be Tulara Lee and George, a singing and comedy pantomine team.

Admission to all shows in the Amphtheatre is free. Shows are scheduled nightly at 7 and 9.

If you like "Fonzie" and "Happy Days," you'll love Flash Cadillac and the Kids.

The group formed about six years ago when a bunch of Colorado college kids got together to play basketball. They soon pooled their musical talents and after out - growing the Colorado college circuit, headed for Los Angeles between exams.

Excellent musicians, their music is pure 50's rock and roll with 70's technology.

While they play the oldies - but - goodies, they have composed some of their own music, combining authentic rock and roll with contemporary intricate harmonies and rich instrumental overtones.

Flash Cadillac and the Kids have appeared on the "Happy Days" television series and composed and performed the only original music for the box office smash film, "American Graffitti."

They were also featured in the film.

In addition to Flash, who plays guitar and sings lead vovals, the group is composed of Spike, lead guitar; Butch, bass guitar; Wheaty, drums; Spider, saxophone; and Angelo, piano. Their combination of great music and outrageous stage antics combine to draw SRO audiences where ever they appear— night clubs, Fairs or college campuses.

At present they have three albums out.

Tulara Lee and George, a comedy team, have delighted audiences at the London Palladium with Frank Sinatra and also toured with Rowan and Martin's Laugh In.

The beautiful Tulara, who sings and pantomines, is also a pilot and artist.

COMEDIAN GEORGE KIRBY
Star attraction July 4-5

DANNY DAVIS & NASHVILLE BRASS
At Amphitheatre July 6-7

Kirby known for 'Pearl' impression

George Kirby, comedian and impressionist perhaps best known for his impersonation of Pearl Bailey, will appear at the Fairgrounds Amphitheatre July 4-5 with the Duane Dancers and the comedy team of Tulara Lee and George.

The Fair, which runs from June 27 through July 11, will have two shows daily at 7 and 9 p.m.

A master of timing and dialect, Kirby has a repertoire of almost 200 impressions. Supplementing his act with a little piano playing and singing, he can move his hefty frame about with gliding ease as he dances across the stage.

Kirby began his career at the Club Delisa in Chicago. He first worked as a porter, then bartender and finally, after asking the club's owners for an audition, he was part of the show for over a year. After a stint in the Army during World War II, he resumed his career in the U.S. and also toured with Sophie Tucker in England and Nat King Cole in Australia.

A television guest favorite, Kirby has appeared on the Johnny Carson Tonight Show, Kraft Music Hall and the Sammy & Company Show. He has also appeared in many TV specials.

Appearing in movies, Kirby has also headlined in the major supper clubs of the United States.

Tulara Lee and George, a comedy pantomine team, and the Duane Dancers, a five-girl song and dance group which has appeared at the Alameda County Fair many times, will be featured with Kirby.

As with all the shows in the Amphitheatre, gates to the arena will open one hour before the first show—which starts at 7 p.m.

The Amphitheatre seats 3,000 and, as many veteran Fair-goers can attest, the shows draw near capacity audiences. So it's first-come, first-seated.

On March 29, 1776, Gen. Henry Clinton waited impatiently at Cape Fear, N.C., for the arrival of an overdue expedition of British Army reserves to relieve his weary troops. They did not arrive and Clinton had to withdraw. When the fleet, under the command of Sir Peter Parker, landed on April 19, they were surprised to learn that patriots, and not Tories, were in control of the colony and the harbor, The World Almanac notes.

This years' Fair is a continuation of one of America's great traditions. As the early settlers came across the wilderness and formed new communities, annual get-togethers offered people the opportunity to show their talents and accomplishments, and have just plain fun. This became an important ingredient to frontier and farm life.

Life has changed a lot since then, but fairs still offer a unique experience, and Alameda County provides one of the best! 1976 has particular significance for American and I believe it fitting that the fair have a Bicentennial theme.

I wish to congratulate all those who work so hard to make it a success and invite everyone to join me as a participant in this great American Tradition.

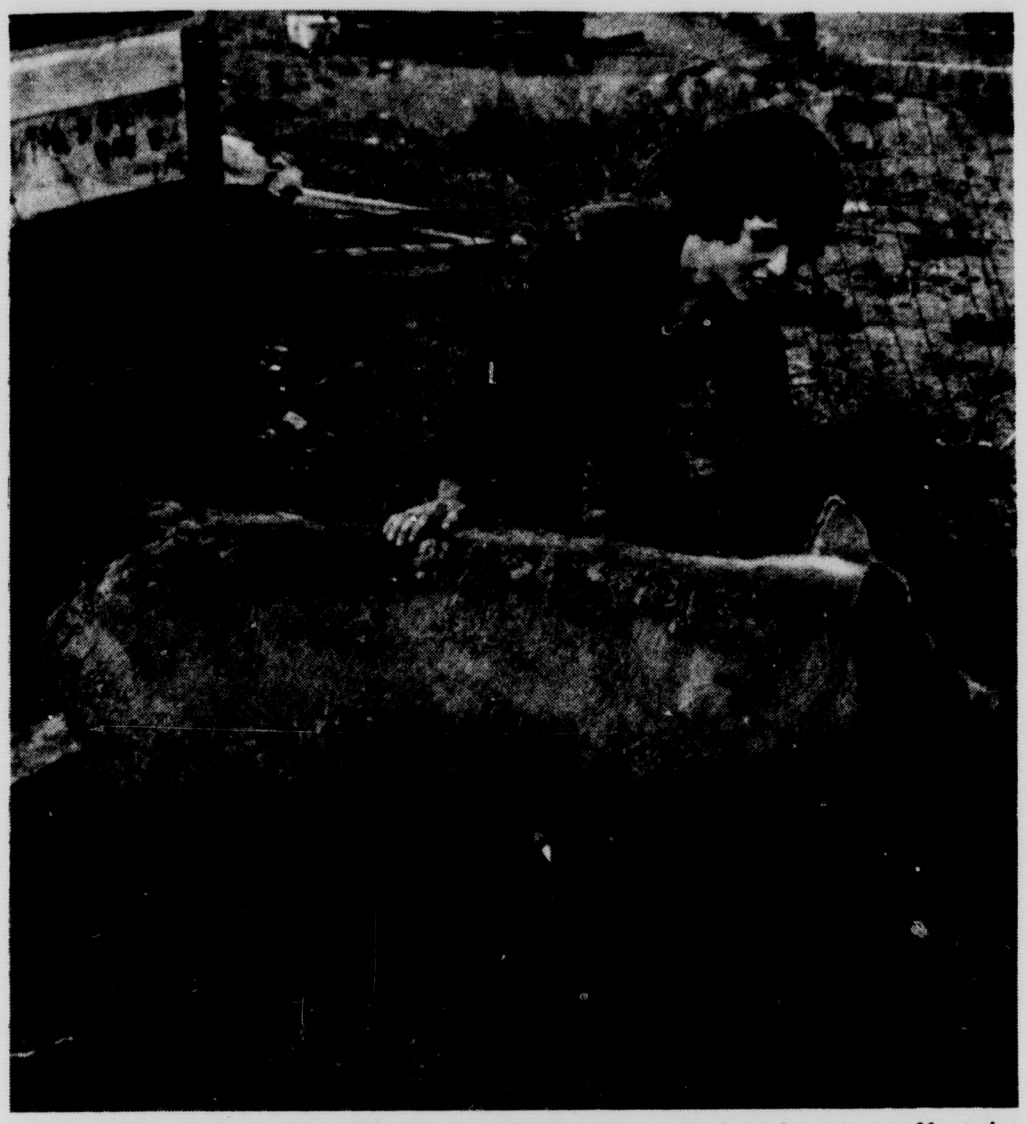
HEXCEL®



THIS LITTLE PIG IS GOING TO MARKET, but not before he stops off at the Alameda County Fair to be observed by thousands. And he won't make it to the fair until his owner, Eddie Allen of Del Valle 4-H gives him a good scrubbing down and grooming job.

Volunteers 4-H backbone

Volunteers are the backbone of the 4-H program. For every hour spent by a professional 4-H worker, volunteers spend ten hours. This is equivalent to 20 eight hour days per year for each volunteer.

With the help of the volunteers, 1900 4-H members learned by doing in projects, club meetings field days and events. Practical projects and activities supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service also give older 4-H'ers an opportunity to explore careers in the food industry.

Young people can earn awards donated by Carnation and arranged by the National 4-H Service Committee. Top awards of $1,000 college scholarships go to six national winners, who will be announced at the 55 National 4-H Congress in Chicago Nov. 28 through Dec. 2.

Carnation provides an expense - paid trip to Congress to one 4-H'er in each state and offers up to four medals of honor per county. All winners are selected by the Extension Service.

Dress revues are an educational feature of the overall 4-H clothing program. 4-H'ers nine to 19 learn - by - doing to select, construct, accessorize and model garments that reflect fashion trends as well as their own skills and life - styles.

For 30 years Simplicity Pattern Co., Inc has encouraged 4-H dress revuers through its "traveling wardrobes".

Once word was received that the "Fair is on" 4-H'ers busied themselves getting their animals ready to make their yearly trip to the Livestock Exhibition. Sue grooms her horse while FFH member, Scott Downing works on his sheep.

Beef

Beef is an important element in American cuisine and has been since America's birth 200 years ago — even before that.

Cattle first came to the American Southwest with the Spanish in the 1500's and in 1624 with English settlers in New England. For early Americans cattle were an important food source; but in the chain of uses for cattle, meat was last. Cattle were, first, work animals; second, a source of milk, a source of hides and lastly, meat.

The 4-H Junior Livestock Auction will be held on Sunday, July 11 at 9:30 a.m.

Nashville Brass set July 6-7

Combining the sound of big band brass and an old country music ballad and what do you get?

Danny Davis and the Nashville Brass.

Appearing with the nationally - known group July 6 and 7 at the Fairgrounds Amphitheatre will be Willie Tyler and Lester, a popular ventriliquist team.

Admission to the shows, held at 7 and 9 each evening, is free.

Conceived but not promoted prior to the Tijuana Brass, Danny Davis and the Nashville Brass fought a lot of controversy and down-home stubborness before they finally found someone to back the unlikely combination of trombones and trumpets with country music. That someone happened to be Chet Atkins and from the groups's first album in October, 1968, it's been a success.

Davis, before George Nowlan in Randolph, Mass., was one of eight children raised by his widowed mother on the "shanty-irish" side of town. He attended the New England Conservatory of Music and was trumpet soloist with the Massachusetts All-State Symphony Orchestra at age 14.

After playing with big band leaders such as Gene Krupa, Bobby Byrne, Bob Crosby and Freddy Martin and signing with other groups lead by Sammy Kaye and Blue Barron, Davis became a producer for MGM and produced records.

Fair-time means exhibits, jobs for youth

COUNTY FAIR-TIME means the chance for dozens of valley young people to seek part-time employment, doing a variety of jobs around the grounds. Many students see the Fair as an annual opportunity to earn money for a return to school in the fall.

LIVESTOCK JUDGING as seen above is typical of daily events involving youth at Fair. Photo was taken at 1974 Fair. At left, "Bertha and Mrs. Bushy" and Danette Bailey of Pleasanton are pictured at judging of Fair fine arts. The two (not Danette!) took third-place in out of county sculpture class.

KAREN SWEET HOLDS one of the delightful little furry Cavies that are among the hundreds of animals exhibited daily at the Alameda County Fair. Exhibits in the livestock and building areas will be open from June 27 through July 11.

'75 Fair a record-smasher

When the Alameda County Fair '75 shutdown after its annual two-week run, it signalled the close of the most remarkable season in the 63-year history of the Fair.

Paid attendance in the 15 days of the Fair reached 335,618— an increase of 22 per cent over the 262,265 paid admissions in 1974. Overall attendance at the Fair reached a record 433,381 persons who came through the turnstiles. This was 51,090 more people than in 1974.

Biggest day for attendance, again, was the Fourth of July, when an incredible 65,664 streamed through.

Attendance for the races soared to new peaks last year, with 122,688 registered for the total 12 days— as compared to 112,125 in 1974. The '75 figures averages out to slightly more than 10,000 a day that came to the Pleasanton track for the racing cards.

An all-time Pleasanton record $11.8 million was wagered— or barely short of $1 million in wagers each day.

MARTY ROBBINS

At Fair June 30th

Marty Robbins —'El Paso'

Marty Robbins, country western singer and composer, will appear at the Alameda County Fair on June 30 and July 1.

Appearing twice daily at 7 and 9 p.m., Robbins will perform a wide range of musical numbers, including his hits— White Sport Coat, Devil Woman, Don't Worry, Big Iron, You Gave Me a Mountain, My Woman My Woman My Wife, Beggin' to You and the classic El Paso.

Admission to all the shows in the Fairgrounds Amphitheatre is free.

Robbins is not only a singer and composer, but an actor and stock car driver. He drove the pace car in this year's Indianapolis 500.

Born in Arizona, Robbins was always fascinated with country music and "cowboy stars" such as Gene Autry. During high school he began boxing and trained for a professional boxing career until, when he was in the Navy, he began singing. He soon had his own radio and television show, then began recording in Nashville and still appears on the "Grand Ole Opry."

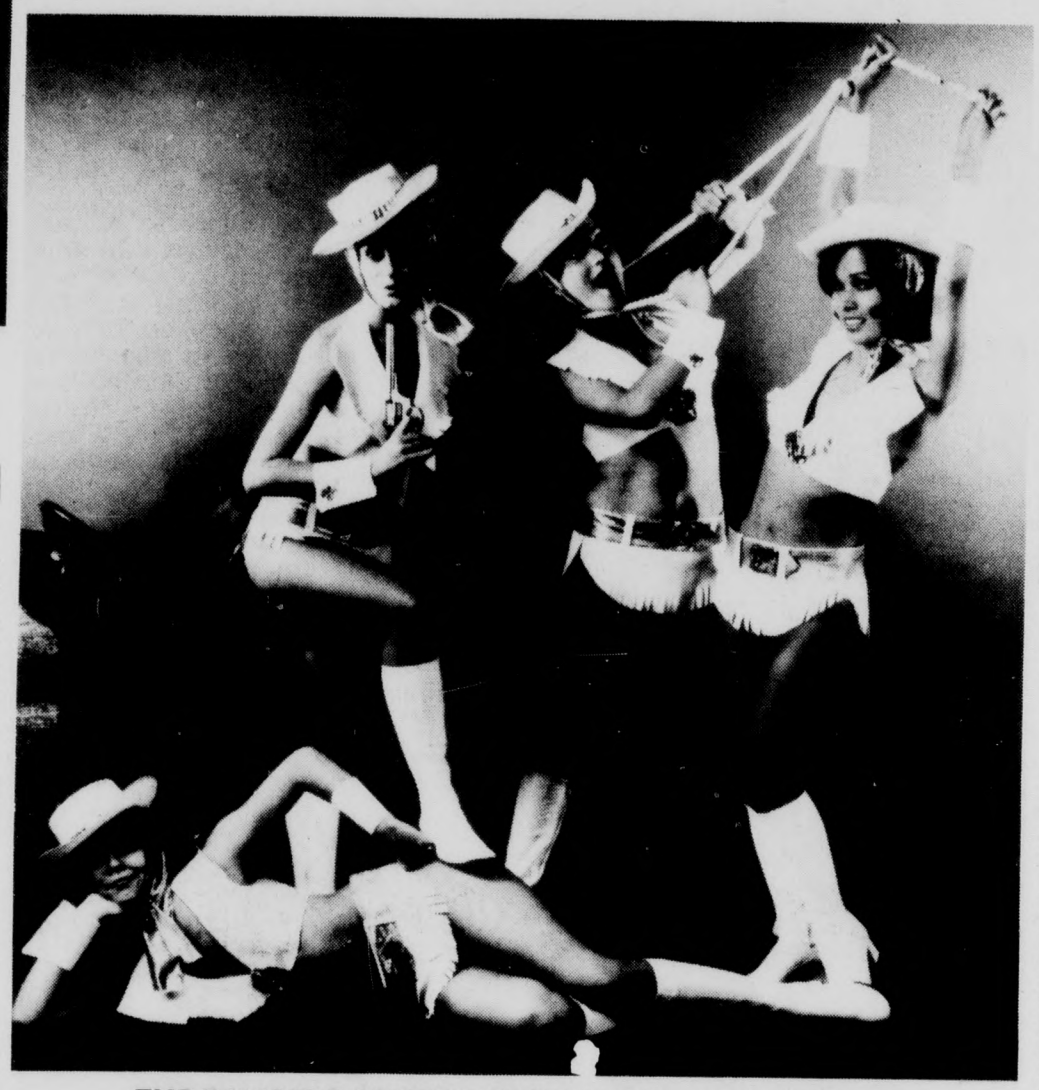
Robbins, his wife and two children live on a cattle ranch in Tennessee and when not recording or performing in top night spots such as Las Vegas, can be found at stock car tracks.

He started racing in 1961 and has been in the top 10 in national races ever since.

On the same bill with Robbins will be the Duane Dancers, a Castro Valley-based dance group. Unique song and dance routines, improvisations, comedy and tributes to every musical era are performed by five beautifully - costumed young ladies.

The Duane Dancers have toured with Kay Starr, Jerry Reed, the Lennon Sisters, John Davidson, Barbara Eden and John Gary, among others, and appeared at the Fairmont Grand Ballroom and the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco last month.

They have appeared at the Alameda County Fair for approximately 10 years.



THE DUANE DANCERS RETURN FOR 10th SEASON

Comic-musicMC for Fair shows

What smokes two cigars, blows a trumpet and squeezes an accordion all at the same time?
